1. Two new parallel high tension power lines Annex A, Points 18 and 19, about 35 m. distant from each other led to Tabor 4925N-1440E from the area southwest of the town, probably from the power station at Mydlovary 4905N-1421E. The first one, with a capacity of 100,000 V, was completed in 1951; the second one, with a planned capacity of 25,000 V, was under construction and was scheduled for completion by the end of 1952. Each line consisted of seven aluminum cables of 10 to 12 mm. diameter. Both lines ended at a new transformer station Annex A, Point #11 located on the eastern outskirts of Tabor. In 1952 a branch line Annex A, Point #20, leading from this transformer station to the Kovosvit plant at Sezimovo Usti 4923N-1442E and the Silon plant at Plana nad Luznicí 4921N-1442E, was installed to serve both enterprises jointly. The electric current, conducted by this line through four aluminum cables of 10 to 12 mm. diameter, had a capacity of 25,000 V.
2. The construction of a new hospital in Tabor Annex A, Point #24 was begun during World War II and work was still going on there in the summer of 1952. Three buildings had been completed and put in operation; a fourth building, the last one of the compound, in which a thermic plant was located, was going to be completed in August 1952. It was planned to lay out a park around the hospital for the benefit of the patients. The name of the hospital was the Tabor District Hospital (Oblastn nemocnice Tabor).
3. A circumferential highway to by-pass Tabor Annex A, Point 22; Annex B, Point #8 has been planned for about 10 years. The project was still in the planning stage as of the summer of 1952.
4. Secondary railroad lines Annex B, Points 14a and b have been planned since 1910. The construction of these lines is still under consideration, but has not been begun.
